

Free interactive online training sessions now available

We are happy to announce that we are now offering free interactive training sessions via Google Hangouts to aid in your PoreXpert experience.

“ I have gained further insight to the programmes functionality and uses after undergoing the training sessions which will be very helpful in moving forward with my research. ”

Interactive users will be able to ask questions live during the sessions and be given a walked through explanation of how to solve the problem. Each session will cover a different topic to a basic level, but do not worry if you are unable to attend all of the live sessions as they will be added to a YouTube feed as well as available on the PoreXpert training page and Google+ account.
